Join us

to deepen your understanding of how film-making can enhance climate change education.

This workshop will highlight the benefits of using films to teach climate change and provide resources for incorporating filmmaking into your curriculum. Participants will create a short video on climate change, exploring the power of storytelling to engage visual learners and address the negative media portrayals that often lead to feelings of helplessness. Attendees will leave with practical ideas and techniques for using filmmaking to help students develop meaningful and engaging climate content.

MODERATOR: Tiziana Faitini

This webinar is one of several initiatives carried out by GrACE – Green Europe: Active Citizenship and the Environment, an international teacher training programme led by the University of Trento. It aims to provide educators with comprehensive knowledge of environmental issues and the EU's strategies for tackling the climate crisis, along with innovative methods for teaching about green issues.

Participants with minimum 75% of attendance during the session will receive an official Certificate of Attendance issued by the University of Trento/JM Centre upon request.
