LIVE WEBINAR TEACHING SUSTAINABILITY THROUGH SYSTEMS THINKING

Connecting Planetary and Human Health

COLIN SAGE

INDEPENDENT RESEARCH SCHOLAR

04 December 2025
5:00 - 7:30 PM (CET)

Join us to deepen your understanding of how systems thinking can enrich climate and sustainability education.

This webinar shows why complex environmental challenges cannot be solved by simple “technological fixes.” To build a sustainable future, we need to move beyond reductionist thinking towards a holistic, interdisciplinary, and systemic approach.

We will introduce key features of systems thinking, which links environmental, societal, and economic domains and helps us visualise interconnections. Participants will also engage in a systems mapping exercise to reveal variables, identify leverage points, and explore how citizens can foster better outcomes and meaningful change.
